

Problem Statement

Personas & Solution

Go-To-Market Strategy

Problem Statement

Runners in India lack a platform that turns everyday running into a rewarding, social, and competitive experience. Existing apps track runs but fail to create motivation, community, or gamified progress.

Market Overview

Industry Drivers

- Growing Health & Fitness Awareness - Increasing focus on personal health are pushing population to adapt running and fitness tracking apps.
- Rise of the Recreational Running Culture - A surge in marathon events, community runs & local running groups, boosting demand for running focused digital tools.
- Social fitness & Community motivation - People want to share progress, compare performance & stay connected with peers, accelerating engagement in running apps.
- Shift towards gamified fitness - users prefer engaging fitness experiences i.e. points, badges, streaks, challenges are driving app adoption and retention.
- Fitness influencer ecosystem - Fitness creators on social media promotes running trends & challenges strengthening industry momentum.

Active running population in India.

Source: Strava

Primary research

11 Personal interviews
Survey respondents 58

Competitor Analysis

Apps	Downloads	Key Factors	Missing Elements
Strava	100M+	- GPS Tracking - Performance analytics - Route mapping	No real time gamification , limited peer competition, no hyperlocal run communities
C25K	5M+	- Beginner training plan - Audio guidance - Interval workouts	competition features, no achievements & gratification, no motivation after program ends
Nike run club	50M+	- Guided runs - training programs - run insights	Weak friend vs friend competition, limited community interaction , no real time gamified runs
ASICS runkeeper	10M+	- Goal setting - Run tracking - audio coaching	no recognition , weak motivation loop, no engaging gamification, no social competition

Gaps Identified

- Existing running apps track activity, but fail to motivate long term consistency.
- No platform delivers the 'dopamine hit' young users expect from gaming and social apps.
- Current apps lack meaningful engagement: no gamification, no rivalry, no social gameplay

87% of runners <25yrs don't find running apps engaging

74% respondents want challenge features and achievement recognition in running apps.

Problem Statement

Personas & Solution

Go-To-Market Strategy

Pain Points

Personas

Apoorva

22 Yrs
College student
Run club enthusiast
Runs once a week

- Running apps are boring
- It's hard to find local run clubs

Gaurav

28 Yrs
Corporate employee
Marathon Runner
Runs daily

- No app to challenge friends.
- No strong feeling of achievements

Anupam

40 Yrs
Businessman
Fitness enthusiast
Runs Daily

- Current apps lacks community building
- Apps dont motivate to run again

Naman

20 Yrs
College student
E-sports player
Runs rarely/Never

- No real time gamification in existing apps
- Running apps are boring

Our personas reveal a universal need for motivation, competition, and social belonging. Current apps don't deliver this. Run.io fills this gap by turning running into a game built for students, young professionals, fitness buffs, and casual runners alike.

Our Solution - Run.io

Sign in to capture the streets. | Login to conquer the streets again.
Easy Sign in through Google, Facebook and Apple id.

Normal - Territory goes to whoever covered it last.
Challenge - Your territory stays yours until someone beats your time.

Nikhil owns the pink territory. You can take it only if you beat his time while in challenge mode. Or run a new territory to add to your portfolio.

Hurray! You're #1 in your F.R.I.E.N.D.S group. In Early Rizers, you still need to hustle to reach #1. Earn points by capturing territories and running more kms.

Here's the top events. Join events, build your community, and climb the leaderboard. Share the territory if two or more finish it together.

Your recognition: you have captured 15 territories. A total run of 139 kms. View your daily average here, check your info and add friends.

Problem Statement

Personas & Solution

Go-To-Market Strategy

Positioning Statement

Run.io is India's first competitive running platform that transforms everyday running into a social, gamified battle for territory and city-wide dominance.

Modes

Marketing Channels

How?

Where?

Online

Social Media

- POV style running clips with map animation
- Daily challenge content (eg- #dailynewterritory)

Influencer marketing

- Partner with fitness and running influencers
- Collaboration with micro + mid tire runners to record territory capture videos & TVI challenges

Online Community Groups

- Weekly leaderboard updates on whatsapp, reddit, facebook running groups

Digital Content

- Motivational stories of community runners
- Running tips (eg- pacing, shoes, diet, recovery)

Offline

Events

- Photo booths saying RUN.CAPTURE.OWN the streets
- Sponsoring marathons, city runs

Run Clubs

- Partnering with run clubs to become their leaderboard app
- Listing club events in the app

Run Cafes

- Branded touchpoints inside the cafe's

Gyms

- Posters & QRs for joining gym's running groups
- Partner with gyms to start outdoor running challenges

Marathons, Corporate runs

Run clubs, Run Cafes

Sports store
Sports magazines

Gyms

Master Campaign : "Mark Your Run, Rule Your City"

Quarterly Campaigns

Semi Annual Campaigns

Jan - Jun
Street Kings/ Queens

Theme: Own your city. Win your crown.

Campaign
Users capture map zones across their city through runs. Monthly and half-yearly winners get real-world crowns (merch), trophies, privileges.

Jul - Dec
Run for XP

Theme: Level up your fitness like a game.

Campaign
A 6-month XP-Marathon: complete missions, earn badges, unlock avatar skins, and climb national ladders.

Tactical Campaigns

- Micro-Missions Week - A new mission every day for 7 days.
- College Campus Domination - Perfect for Run.io's young personality.
- Run Together Sundays - Community-building.
- Take the Crown" Influencer Battles - Run.io gives zones to influencers. Users try to dethrone them.
- The 1000 XP Drop - Random XP drops on the map at random times → users must run in that zone and claim before others.

Gamification

Achievement & Recognition

Community & Run clubs

Competition & Rivalry

Key Pillars

THANK YOU