Industry Drivers

influence of Western culture on Indian society

Western films and TV shows frequently feature characters using dating apps, which makes the concept more relatable and appealing.

Growing smartphone adoption and high-speed internet

Boosted by government broadband initiatives and 5G rollout are driving rapid growth in India's online dating user base.

Comfort zone

Research from the Journal of Modernization in Engineering Technology and Science shows that most Indians feel comfortable making the first move online.

Target Groups

Competitor Analysis

Bumble Inc. Women make the first move; safety-focused and empowering.

Tinder LLC Largest global user base; simple swipe model for quick matches

Happn Matches based on real-time, location-based encounters.

Hinge Inc. Helps users build meaningful relationships by using engaging prompts and compatibility-based matching, aiming for real conversations rather than casual swipes.

How MIRA positions itself:

Meet Mira : “India's first AI wingwomen”

Mira is India's first AI wingwomen. Witty but emotionally intelligent.

“Your own wingwomen, not an AI”

- Speaks with warmth, emotional intelligence but with a subtle wittiness.
- Feels like a stylish & a intuitive friend who understands you.

“Matches through compatibility, not algorithm”

- Understands your personality, lifestyle & emotions.
- Handpicks 3 matches that genuinely fits you vibe.

“With you through every step”

- Helps you to chat with confidence (opening lines, maintaining flow)
- Prepares you before offline events with personal insights.

“Trusted, Protective & high standard”

- Guards you from low-effort matches & swipe fatigue
- Ensures only high-quality, vetted individuals enter your circle
